INTRODUCTION

We find ourselves at the 35th edition of the Galway Film Fleadh! We are celebrating 35 years of bringing New Irish Cinema, World Cinema and filmmakers from across the world to Galway for the annual Fleadh. And we open the Fleadh with a very special pilgrimage to Lourdes for the ladies from Ballygar who are hoping for their own miracles in The Miracle Club. We take a road trip in Apocalypse Clown, an existential journey in The Martini Shot and face a tense stand-off on a farm in Lie Of The Land. A young woman finds herself in a struggle with family in period drama Lies We Tell and two women bond on the streets of Dublin in Verdigris. We have 34 Irish films in the programme, with 20 World Premieres and seven Irish Premieres.

We have new sections in the festival this year with Defender bringing us stories of courage and resilience from around the world, Artist On Film celebrating the work of artists across the artforms and Architecture On Film, exploring our landscape and buildings.

Our Music section brings the best of documentary and drama with the inimitable John Murry on the screen and live in concert, The Skids: Revolution features the 1980s' band that have entered a revival, a focus on the electronic music and hip-hop scene in Ó Bhéal alongside icons of the music world on screen and in conversation with Joan Baez and Cyndi Lauper.

Award-winning World Cinema features stories of romance in differing circumstances with the complexity of love in Mutt, unexpected love in Here, enduring love in Love Without Walls, and love through the decades in Past Lives. Our Peripheral Visions competition returns with the best in emerging talent with stories about land, family secrets and a post-apocalyptic animation while our Country of Focus is NOWHERE, that void in the middle where people are left without a place to call home.

Filmmakers are the life blood of the festival and this year we remember two good friends of the festival who are no longer with us. A retrospective screening of Kings will remember Tommy Collins and to honour James Flynn's contribution and legacy to the Irish film industry, we are delighted to name the Best First Short Drama award in his name.

We have 95 feature films from 43 countries with 21 World Premieres, six European Premieres and 60 Irish Premieres, we will screen 102 short films, and moderate panels, events and masterclasses. Bain taitneamh as an Fleadh. What will you watch?

Beir bua agus beannacht,

Director of Programming

LOUDER THAN YOU THINK

Winner of the SXSW 2023 Audience Award for the 24 Beats Per Second screening section, this up-close cinematic walkabout through the life of Gary Young, the original (and highly unlikely) drummer of indie rock royalty Pavement. His booze and drugs-fueled antics (on-stage handstands, gifting vegetables to fans) and haphazard production methods (accidentally helping launch the lo-fi aesthetic) were both a driving force of the band's early rise and the cause of his eventual crash landing.

Leaving a wake of joy and/or destruction at every turn, Gary teeters the thin line between free-form self-expression and chaotic self-destruction. 30 years on with scoliosis, blood clots, and a shriveled liver, Gary is still drumming with no regrets.

JOHN BEHAN – ODYSSEY

John Behan RHA is Ireland's best-known living sculptor. He is as busy as ever in his early 80s, with regular exhibitions in Ireland and abroad. In addition to this heavy workload, he feels so strongly about the suffering of refugees around the world that, for a number of years before Covid, he travelled to Athens to volunteer at Camp Eleonas, a state-run centre for migrants, and delivered art workshops to adults.

His artistic practice has always dealt with displacement of people and emigration, and the most celebrated example of his public sculpture is the National Famine Memorial at Murrisk, near Westport.

Although the documentary is not a conventional profile, as we observe him at work in Greece, we flash back to archive footage, as he tells the story of his life in his own words.

SUR L'ADAMANT

From renowned documentary filmmaker, Nicholas Philibert, On The Adamant is a film about a unique day-care centre: it is a floating structure. The team running it is one that tries to resist the deterioration and dehumanisation of psychiatry as best it can.

From the Lumière Brothers all the way to YouTube and the world of social media, the film chronicles how we went from capturing the image of a backyard to a multi-billion-euro content industry in just 200 years.

IT'S A FINE THING TO SING

Framed within the stunning landscape of the Inishowen peninsula in North Donegal, this film explores the world of traditional song, community archive and generational transmission.

When singers Ian Lynch (Lankum), Ye Vagabonds and The Henry Girls are invited to create their own interpretations of songs from the Inishowen Song Project, the audience is invited into a vast collection of local songs, documented over 40 years from within the community itself. These new performances, atmospheric archival recordings and accompanying interviews with key community figures demonstrate how songs pass from singer to singer, while also examining the question of why we sing.

FACE DOWN

On the 27th of December 1973, a nightmare began for an entire family. On that night, a German businessman called Thomas Niedermayer was kidnapped from his home in Belfast.

He was never seen alive again by his friends or family. He became one of the "disappeared", and it seemed that no-one knew what had happened to him.

His wife, Ingeborg, and his daughters, Renate and Gabriele, spent the next seven years not knowing if Thomas was alive or dead.

Then, in 1980, an IRA informant led police to recover his body. But the trauma did not end then: there were further devastating consequences for all of them.

Thomas and Ingeborg's only granddaughters, Tanya and Rachel, were told nothing of this history when they were growing up. Now, 50 years after their grandfather was kidnapped, they have embarked on a painful journey of discovery – to find out the shocking truth of what really happened half-a-century ago.

My Cure and Me

Capturing a vanishing Ireland, My Cure and Me is a heart-warming, nostalgic documentary exploring the experiences of two elderly, rural, Irish faith healers, examining a practice steeped in faith and rich in history and folklore.

Director/Writer/Producer: Alan Bradley

Echo

An operation ten years ago left Allister with damaged vocal cords and an obstacle to communication. His unusual solution reminds us that community thrives in surprising places.

Director/Writer/Producer: Ross McClean

Canine

Conservation has become a war. On one side are the rangers protecting vulnerable wildlife. On the other, ruthless poaching gangs. The film follows AK, a Belgian Malinois pup, through his training to become an anti-poaching tracking dog working with rangers in Africa.

Director/Writer/Producer: Paul Webster

Being Put Back Together

Panel on Neurodiversity in the Screen Industry, Co-Sponsored by Screen Ireland and UCC Film Department

This panel will discuss the importance of a new unique short course for the screen industry on neurodiversity which was piloted by ACE at UCC and Screen Ireland in March 2022, why it's important, and why now in particular. There is no course like this anywhere else in the world, that is built specifically for the industry by a neurodivergent creative, and that is university accredited. There has been massive interest in this course with queries coming in from media organisations across Europe and the United Kingdom. For once in Ireland, we are the innovators and the first.
